Exhibits and sculptures to know about now

JOAQUIN SOROLLA Y BASTIDA

An exhibition of works by the renowned Spanish painter Joaquín Sorolla y Bastida is being held at the Norton Museum of Art, West Palm Beach, through March 16th, in collaboration with the Hispanic Society Museum and Library. Forty paintings are on display, including vibrant beach and seascapes that capture the essence of the Mediterranean light and landscape. The exhibit also includes pieces by artists he influenced, including luminaries such as John Singer Sargent and Claude Monet.

REBECCA BRODSKIS

Rebecca Brodskis lives and works in Paris, having spent her childhood in both France and Morocco. She studied painting at the Ateliers des Beaux Arts de la Ville de Paris and at Central Saint Martins College of Art and Design in London, before going on to take a master's degree in sociology. Her work explores themes of vulnerability and social crisis. An exhibition, Echoes of Now, is being held at Kristin Hjellegjerde Gallery, West Palm Beach, through January 18th.

PIA-MARIA RAEDER: ALAIN CORNU

PIA- MARIA RAEDER

Pia-Maria Raeder's Sea Anemone series catapulted her to international acclaim and is a testament to both her craftsmanship and unique artistic process. Each sculpture is meticulously created from thousands of beechwood rods, which are sanded, arranged at varying heights, and then lacquered. The result evokes the wavy shadows of the ocean floor. The Musée des Arts Décoratifs in Paris has acquired pieces from the series for its permanent collection.
